

If I want to contact any of the CBA members, I would rather it be when I want to contact them. That is why we have signed up for the no call list. Businesses call at all hours of the day and night, banks included. It is very annoying and I consider it harrassment, because they don't ever want to take no for an answer. I hang up on them. I have had banks even ignore the fact that I am on the no call list and that is annoying also. And if one does call me, they will be the last business that I would do business with, so it will not help them any to get this lifted. If anything, it will hurt their business.
